Allied finds itself in an unmatched beneficial position with regards to two major trends in the global industry.

The first one is the big trend of Service Integration and Management. Global companies are consolidating the services erstwhile outsourced to a large number of vendor by introducing a Service Integrator in the middle. Hundreds of such contracts are thus getting novated. Allied Digital is at the forefront of this trend, due to its global reach and understanding of the full spectrum of the services. Allied Digital has won two large novation contracts recently- one from an automobile giant and the other from a global manufacturing conglomerate.

The second trend is the big wave of rapid business modernisation through migration to cloud native environments. Allied Digital has been a leader in this space for long and by virtue of its long standing and experience in this space finds itself uniquely positioned to lead this global change.”
